The study "Quo Vadis EU gas regulatory framework" was carried out to analyse whether the current regulatory framework in the EU gas sector is efficient in order to maximise overall EU welfare or whether changes may be necessary, and if so provide recommendations. The study identifies potential inefficiencies of the EU gas market regulatory framework assuming the full implementation of the Third Energy Package and related gas Network Codes, and discusses possible additional regulatory measures which could potentially lead to the improvement of EU welfare. The first "Klaus Vogel Lecture", entitled "European Tax Law, quo vadis?", was held on 25 October 2007 at the Vienna University of Economics and Business Administration (Wirtschaftsuniversität Wien). The lecture was delivered by Prof. Leif Mutén, after which Prof. ...
